If gambling is affecting your life and you are thinking about change, you’ve already taken the first step. This guide will help you understand gambling, figure out if you need to change, and decide how to deal with the actual process of change. If you’re at all concerned about your gambling, this guide is for you.

Your First Step to Change

Should you decide to change, this guide can help you begin your journey. You can use the guide in the way you feel most comfortable. Complete it all at once, a little at a time, or keep it as a reference that you can read whenever you want. The guide is divided into the following three sections:

Section 1: Facts About Gambling, will explain how gambling works and how it can become a problem for some people.

Section 2: Understanding Your Gambling, will help you think about how you gamble and your reasons for gambling.

Section 3: Thinking About Change, will lead you through the process of change.
The first step of your journey is to figure out if you need or want to change. Try to answer the following questions:

1. Have you often gambled longer than you had planned? Yes____ No____
2. Have you often gambled until your last dollar was gone? Yes____ No____
3. Have thoughts of gambling caused you to lose sleep? Yes____ No____
4. Have you used your income or savings to gamble while letting bills go unpaid? Yes____ No____
5. Have you made repeated, unsuccessful attempts to stop gambling? Yes____ No____
6. Have you broken the law or considered breaking the law to pay for your gambling? Yes____ No____
7. Have you borrowed money to pay for your gambling? Yes____ No____
8. Have you felt depressed or suicidal because of your gambling losses? Yes____ No____
9. Have you been remorseful after gambling? Yes____ No____
10. Have you ever gambled to get money to meet your financial obligations? Yes____ No____

If you answered “yes” to any of these questions, then you may want to consider making a change. The following sections of this guide can help. Section 1 will explain some interesting things about gambling you might not know.
Understanding Gambling

Gambling is simply putting something at stake on the outcome of an event before it happens. People usually gamble because they hope to gain something of larger value. Gambling includes everything from buying a lottery or a scratch ticket to playing Bingo to betting on the outcome of a sports event.

“What is problem gambling?”

Problem gambling is gambling to the extent that it causes emotional, family, legal, financial or other problems for the gambler and the people around the gambler. Problem gambling can get worse over time, and gambling problems can range from mild to severe.

“Streaks”

Every time you flip a coin your chance of getting heads is 50% and your chance of getting tails is 50%. This means that if you flip the coin 10 times and it comes up heads all 10 times, the chance of getting heads or tails on the 11th flip is exactly the same: 50-50. The outcome of each coin toss does not affect the next. The coin does not have a memory. Although many people think that losing streaks are more likely to be followed by wins, you are never “due” to win.

“Luck”

People who have a problem with gambling often believe that things like “luck” can affect their chances to win. For example, some people who play slot machines believe that playing one specific machine for a long time, or that wearing their lucky shirt, can favorably affect their chance of winning. These things have no effect on chance. Chance is chance.

“What are some signs of problem gambling?”

When people have a problem with gambling, many times they feel like they need to bet more money more frequently, feel irritated when they try to stop, and think that they can “chase” their losses to recover money. This can lead to more gambling, despite financial loss and the trust of friends and loved ones. In general, people with gambling problems usually spend a large portion of their income on gambling.
“Do a lot of people have problems with gambling?”
If gambling is becoming a problem for you, you are not alone. Research shows that 1.1% of the adult population in the U.S. and Canada has had severe problems with gambling in the past year. Also, another 2.2% of that same population has had at least some problems with gambling in the past year. Based on a recent U.S. Census, in total these estimates represent 7 million people in the U.S. alone.

“What if it’s my turn to win?”
Sometimes people who gamble tend to think that eventually it will be their turn to win, but it’s probably not. Here’s why: gambling is based on chance, probability, and randomness. If you have a 50-50 chance at winning a game, it doesn’t matter how many times you have won or lost in the past. The next time you play, your chances of winning are still 50-50.

“Are certain games more likely to lead to gambling problems?”
All gambling is risky to some degree. Games that have a quick turnaround, such as video lottery, slot machines, and scratch tickets, are typically more risky. However, gambling problems can develop by playing any type of game.

SYSTEMS AND STRATEGIES
Many problem gamblers believe either that they have found a way to “outsmart” the system or that they have an ability to beat the odds. Even if you were able to handicap a race or count cards, there are still many factors that could change the outcome of an event. As a result, it is not likely that you have turned the odds in your favor or even affected them in any substantial way. Gambling is gambling—the outcome is always unknown, and there is no way for a gambler to affect the odds of the game.
Section 2: Understanding Your Gambling

Understanding how gambling works and the dangers that are associated with gambling is an important step in your journey. This part of the guide will help you to understand your gambling patterns. Complete the questions below to see if you should examine your gambling patterns more closely:

1. Have you ever tried to cut down on your gambling? Yes____ No____
2. Are others annoyed by your gambling? Yes____ No____
3. Do you ever gamble alone? Yes____ No____
4. Do you ever feel guilty about your gambling? Yes____ No____
5. Do you ever gamble to feel better? Yes____ No____

If you answered “yes” to one or more questions, then you may want to consider looking at your gambling more closely. Many people are not aware of all the ways that gambling can affect their lives. The exercise on the following page will help you to identify difficulties you may be facing. Answering these questions can alert you to problems that you might not have thought about before.

</tbody>
These questions point out different problems you might have had because of gambling. Each question identifies a very serious problem. If you answered “yes” to one or more of these questions, you might want to think about reducing or stopping gambling.

Money Problems

Another way to understand your gambling is to consider the financial impact it has on you. Many problem gamblers experience various kinds of money problems. For example, some problem gamblers are always short of cash despite adequate income, and others will borrow, pawn, or even steal to get some quick cash to gamble. Answer the following questions to see if you have found yourself in some of the same money situations as problem gamblers:

1. Have you ever been denied credit? Yes____  No____
2. Have you ever taken money out of savings, investments, or retirement accounts to gamble? Yes____  No____
3. Do you find yourself frequently bothered by bill collectors? Yes____  No____
4. Have you ever used grocery money or other money for necessities to gamble? Yes____  No____
5. Have you ever delayed paying household bills in order to get more money for gambling? Yes____  No____
6. Have you ever taken cash advances from credit cards to use for gambling? Yes____  No____

If you answered “yes” to any of these questions, it may be a sign that your gambling has affected your financial situation. Money problems, such as these, are usually symptoms, not the causes, of problem gambling. At this point you still may not know if you want to change. What’s important is that you have a better understanding of your gambling. The next section of this guide will help you to think about the reasons you gamble and how to change, should you decide a change is right for you.
Section 3: Thinking About Change

“Do I really want to change?”

Before you make a decision, it’s good to think about the costs and benefits of each choice. Filling in the boxes below will help you see the costs and benefits of your gambling:

Here’s an example:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Benefits of Not Gambling</th>
<th>Benefits of Gambling</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• I would have more money to spend on other things.</td>
<td>• I have fun when I gamble.</td>

What does this mean to you? ________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

Do the benefits of continuing to gamble outweigh the costs? ___________

If you think the costs of continuing to gamble are greater than the benefits, you may want to consider changing your gambling behavior. This is your decision.
Deciding on Goals

The next step in the process of change is deciding on your goals. For example:

- When do you want to change?
- Do you want to stop gambling or just gamble less than you do now?

Remember that change is a process and it will take time. The first three months are usually the most difficult. The period after that will be hard too, but not quite like when you began to change. Although getting through this process may seem very difficult, the experience of many people shows that you can change your gambling patterns.

To change these patterns, you must first make a decision. Think about what changes you would like to make. For example, you may decide that you want to completely stop gambling in the next year, or that you want to limit your gambling activity over the next six months.

Which of the following options would you choose?
Check the box that applies:

- [ ] Stop Completely
- [ ] Limit Gambling

Now write down some details about how you will accomplish the goal you just chose. For example, when are you planning to start? What specific things will you begin to do differently?

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Some people simply cut down on gambling, while others try to stop completely. Research suggests that cutting down on gambling can be a goal. However, a lot of people find that just cutting back on gambling is a difficult goal to keep because it can easily lead back to problem gambling. If reducing your gambling is too hard for you, you may choose to stop gambling completely. Obviously, neither option will be easy, but just reducing your gambling might be more risky.
“What can I do to handle an urge to gamble?”

Urges are normal for a person who is reducing the amount that they gamble. Urges are often very difficult to deal with, but with practice you will be able to let these feelings pass without giving in to them. You might notice that after stopping or cutting back your gambling you get more urges to gamble than you did before. This is normal. What’s important is that you recognize that these urges are temporary and they will pass.

Here are a few suggestions. Focus on doing other things. Replace the things in your life that you associate with gambling with other activities that will help to keep your mind off gambling. Find new enjoyable ways to spend your time. Most importantly, think about the things that you liked to do before gambling became a part of your life.

Make a list of those things you enjoyed before gambling became a part of your life.

________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________

Get involved with these old activities again; you might have forgotten just how much you enjoyed doing them. Keep this list with you at all times so that you can refer to it should you get an urge to gamble.

If your urge is so great that you cannot focus on your new way of thinking or an activity on your list, say, “Okay, maybe I’ll gamble in 10 minutes.” Then wait 10 minutes. If the urge is still there, keep telling yourself to just wait 10 minutes. Find other things to do from the list you made for each 10-minute interval. The urge to gamble will pass with time.
Now, call or visit a friend or family member that you can trust. Talk about your urges to gamble and how you are dealing with these feelings. Friends and family who support your decision to change will play a big role in helping you achieve your goals. Some people in your life, however, might not want you to change, and these people could potentially encourage you to gamble. If you know someone who may do this, avoid contacting that person—especially when you are experiencing an urge to gamble.

“What if I gamble and I really don’t want to?”
If you find that you gamble even though you are trying to quit, you are not alone. Many people find that it takes several attempts to quit or cut down on gambling. Stopping or reducing gambling is a very difficult thing to do and you may not be able to do it the first time you try. Remember, however, that a lot of people don’t even get this far. By asking for information and thinking about change, you have already begun your journey to a safer, happier, and healthier life.

If you do gamble and you don’t want to, that does not mean that you will never be able to stop. Keep trying, keep talking to people you trust, and keep asking for help. Going back to gambling doesn’t make your goals any less valuable or possible.

Hopefully this guide has helped you think about change. It is a starting point, as well as a roadmap for the process of change. Thinking about change is not always easy. Should you decide a change is right for you, you will encounter many obstacles along the way. Expect them and be prepared. Your journey may be difficult at times, but it will be well worth it.
ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Reading this guide may have helped you to notice new things about yourself. Some of these things can be hard to deal with. Some may even be life problems that don’t have anything to do with gambling. If you think that you have some other types of problems (or even some gambling problems that you need more help with), you should consider getting additional support or treatment. Some of the resources in the envelope in the back of the guide will help you, should you decide to seek additional information or counseling.
